

Syllabus Companion

The Catholic University of America
arpl 401/601/603/701

School of Architecture and Planning
Fall Semester 2017

walton
STUDIO
Bermudez / Joy VAS

REALITY

Postmodern apathy, cynicism, and relativism notwithstanding, we are experiencing a fragmented and chaotic reality acted out in massively irresponsible behaviors across the Earth. Our world is shrinking under the merciless assault of our polluting and wasteful habits. Habits that come out of accepting a life in the fast lane under the mantra of more, bigger, faster, better, and cheaper. Habits that keep on failing to provide what they promise and instead deliver only more unmet needs, grief and stress. Despite the promises heralded by the rising digital age, continuous scientific breakthroughs, the prowess of technological evolution, and the myth of infinite growth and rationality, we always find ourselves returning, increasingly more frustrated, to the same ancient existential dilemmas born out of just being alive and trying to attain some peace, security, and contentment. Little, if any, have we advanced in these simple matters. Escaping this fact into the carefully crafted distractions geared to our most superficial desires and exercised through unchecked consumerism, social media, or entertainment never quite works either. Worse still, we are witnessing what some of these habits have brought us: global warming, unspoken poverty co-existing with opulent greed, violence, AIDS, terrorism, war, ecological devastation, and economic instability at a planetary scale. Although it is hard to admit it, we ourselves have been all too often shy accomplices of this state of affairs. Confused, distracted and overwhelmed by the neurotic complexity of it all, we feel little more than irrelevant peons, floating astray in the rough seas of 21st Century civilization.

ARCHITECTURE

Professing architecture is no light matter in these circumstances. True professing demands that we hold a position, make a vow in the name of a deep seeded passion for architecture, our fellow beings and Earth. But let us not forget that our professing also requires being able to technically and competently respond to architectural challenges. Professing is where belief and knowledge come together in the here and now of present reality. Hence, uncritically adopting off-the shelf Postmodern, Neo-Modern, Deconstructivist, or any other pre-digested style is superficial and irresponsible. So, how are we to profess architecture facing this reality? Can we truly make a committed and caring act for the sake of improving whatever is trusted to us as architects? Can we make a difference? The studio will take on this question professionally. And, following the two meanings behind professing, it will move simultaneously in two parallel paths of commitment and embodiment.

ON VAS

The philosophical path will offer a voluntary and critical direction that resists the forces of today's zeitgeist. The disciplinary path will lead towards architectural clarity, sustainability, and essentialism as concrete ways to embody this resistance. The two-path road points towards a renewed aesthetics and ethics of (following architect Alberto Campo Baeza) 'more with less'. It encourages a turn towards the minimal, the fundamentally uncomplicated, the direct and conscious as a potent antidote to our culture of excess, schizophrenia and unconsciousness. The studio will then engage the hypothesis of simplicity as a critical, insight seeking, disciplinary and conscious inquiry to confront the professional challenges of today. We are talking of an architecture of presence. We will use Duane Elgin's book "Voluntary Simplicity" as a source of clarity and inspiration along this road.

Starting the journey demands that first and foremost, we do it voluntarily. We must freely chose it from within and not feel that it is imposed on us from without. Second, this choice has to come out of some personal realization of its necessity. In other words, we cannot select it for nostalgic or reactionary reasons. Rather it should grow out of our direct experience of the situation itself. "Growing-out-of" means to have been in the midst of it and come out of it by first hand learning and effort. It signifies to embrace (and not to throw away) what has been overcome. In having been intimate with it at one time, we understand it well enough to attempt to transcend it without narrow-minded resentment. In other words, it is not a position arrived by intellectual reasoning or negative emotions. Rather it is a decision founded in a concrete and personal experience of growth.

Thus, choosing simplicity grows out of our direct experience of living under unnecessary complexity. Seeking focus comes out of being tired of living in distraction. Pursuing essentialism grows out of realizing that superficiality offers little. And so on, the desire for clarity grows out of confusion, conservation out of wastefulness, austerity out of excess, integrity out of fragmentation, self-restrain out of empty consumerism and spending, poetry out of crude materialism, presence and slowness out of the fleetingness of a fast life, committed participation out of passive following, and the minimum out of overcrowded and cluttered conditions.

We call the resulting architecture, Voluntary Architectural Simplicity or VAS for short. The VAS Studio is wherein VAS is practiced by using essential architectural principles, rules, ideas. Two disclaimers here. First, the VAS Studio is consciously naïve in seeking to resist the overwhelming forces of our time. It just makes no sense to do so. Second, the VAS Studio is not self-righteous. Although it claims to do what is right, it does not see itself as "the only way" to address today's challenges. It just professes, and in so doing offers, humbly, Voluntary Architectural Simplicity.

ON SSCS

Yet VAS is not enough. For there is something unspoken of great power that is pushing us into this path of simplification: Spirituality. We "sense" that today's huge problems will never be sincerely addressed (and thus solved) unless we acknowledge the ultimate meaning, wholeness, or trans-personal nature of reality and all beings. While this vision does not require a divinity, it doesn't shy away from the sublime and metaphysical either. In this sense, perhaps, our most urgent job as architects is to profess the sacredness of all space on Earth so that land development may be done with care and wisdom. The preservation, respect, and celebration of space can only come when we honor its sacred dimension. By bringing a spiritual sensibility to its fold, architecture may be able to positively affect a world in desperate need for truth, goodness, and beauty.

The Sacred Space & Cultural Studies (SSCS) concentration is our learning laboratory to discuss, explore, practice, and advance an architecture that invites us to transcend by the power of design quality

RICK JOY

We are very excited to have recognized American architect Rick Joy teaching the Walton studio for 2+ weeks. We will follow his vision and expertise to consider a residential program as it intersects existence, nature, and transcendence. This will mean to take a conceptual but experientially sensitive and place driven architectural framework. Rick Joy has gained substantial international recognition for his contemporary, life-style centered, contextually responsive, and beautiful approach to architecture. As the 2017 Walton Critic, architect Joy will participate in the life of our school at large including lecturing, meeting faculty, and so on. He will deliver a public lecture entitled "Staging Life" on Monday 25 Sept at 5:00PM. However, the main focus of Rick's residency at CUArch is to teach our studio. We have designed the studio curriculum and pedagogy to offer students the best chance to gain from architect Joy's experience and presence. We hope students will take full advantage of this unique opportunity.

PEDAGOGY & SCHEDULE

The semester will be broken down in five Learning Phases:

Learning Phase	Study/Design Focus	Modality	Duration	Due	Grade
One	Preparation	team	2 Wks	9-Sep	10%
Two	Parti	individual	3.5 Wks	4-Oct	30%
Three	Schematic Design	individual	3 Wks	27-Oct	20%
Four	Development & Communication	individual	5 Wks	8-Dec	30%
All	Overall Growth, Participation, Citizenship	individual	n/a	n/a	10%

Phase 1 (Preparation) provides the basic intellectual and precedents scaffolding that students will utilize the rest of the semester. Phase 2 (Parti) an architectural scheme is developed for specific programmatic needs and site (retreat house in rural area). Phase 3 (Schematic Design) takes the parti produced in Phase 2 and turns it into a building. Phase 4 (Development & Communication) involves the in-depth design development and the representation of the whole project. Students will have a chance to work in direct relation with the 2017 Walton Critic.

READINGS, ETC.

Required readings, bibliographical and web references, particular materials, other resources as well as specific details about studio activities, goals, and expectations will be presented in the assignments covering the four pedagogical phases and schedule described above.

COLLABORATION

Although most of the studio work will be done individually, it is expected that students actively engage and support one another in the learning/design process. This is an explicit recognition of how architectural practice actually works — a largely cooperative enterprise in which different people bring their expertise and ideas into a project. When asked to work in teams, students will have the opportunity to develop collaborative skills and get to realize their own strengths as individuals at the same time. The faculty will assist such effort but it is the students' duty to find appropriate accommodations to diversity and difference.

REGULATIONS

Specific information regarding grading, support, accessibility, resources, standards, policies and more are included in the OFFICIAL SYLLABUS of this class, as per regulation of The Catholic University of America. All that is included in this SYLLABUS COMPANION falls under the regulations and rules described in that document.

